Minister Eldridge—June 1969.

Michael Eldridge would not appear at first glance to be a serious college professor. His laid-back attitude is what endears him to his students.

All of the things on his resume are worthy of praise, but they are not the reason why the 1993 ARETÉ is dedicated to him.

"Dr. Eldridge makes you feel that you are not just a student, but a real person with valid opinions," states senior Greg Waldrop.

Eldridge has had his hands full in recent years with helping start the Liberal Learning program. He has been a "guinea pig" along with this year's seniors. Students feel that the good points about the L.L. program can be attributed to Eldridge's openmindedness.

Eldridge has a unique teaching style and seems to go to major lengths to make students participate in class.

"Dr. Eldridge was the first L.L. teacher I had. One day, everyone was refusing to get involved in class discussion. Finally, a girl made a comment. Eldridge got down on his knees and slid across the floor and thanked her."

Unusual stunts such as these make Eldridge stand out. The class of 1993 is glad that Eldridge was there to share in all the newness of the Liberal Learning program.

Let's get serious, here! These students exhibit some of the characteristics that make them a part of the Queens community: they're CRAZY!

Apparently Amy Brady and Sylvia Hensley had a smashing time at the fall R.A. cream-pie fest in the quad.

COME GROOVE

On August 20, 1992, the class of 1996 arrived on Queens' campus. They were greeted by over-eager P.R.O.'s and an enthusiastic residence life staff. From Playfair the first night they were here to the Welcome Back Party at the end of the week, many freshmen barely had time to breathe. In the words of Dana Bowling, "I felt like I was back at summer camp."

While the week was a busy one, the freshmen experienced many fun times. The Orientation Staff organized a Carl Rosen concert and a karaoke night in Morrison Dining Hall. They also gathered lots of very important information through academic advising sessions. All in all, it was a World Class Orientation.

Elizabeth Fendley and the Orientation gang get excited about meeting all the new freshmen.

SENIORS

Ken Cohen and Mandy Moore are all grins in their caps and gowns.

On September 15th, the entire student body congregated in Belk Chapel for the annual Fall Convocation. The begining of a new academic year was honored while the Queens community recognized the Senior Class of 1993 and welcomed the Class of 1996. Dr. Eldridge held a captive audience as the chosen faculty speaker, and speaker Kristy Creekmore along with singers Rachael Hagan and Kenny Dadisman contributed to the day's festivities. Following the service, the celebration moved to Long Dorm in the traditional "SENIORS ONLY" fashion. What a shock to see Tom Bell and Keith Jones monitoring the kegs!

Our day is here, but what a long strange trip it's been.

HOLIDAY

December came to Queens and with it came all of the great traditions enjoyed by students, faculty, and guests. This season began with Santa's Cocktails and Tree Trim in Burwell Parlors. Boar's Head and the Yule Log ceremony also added to the weekend's festivities. The Janusian Order, organizers of Boar's Head, and the Mortar Board made up the procession.

Students dressed in traditional medieval clothing carried the candelabras, tambourines, banners, and of course, the boar's head. After dinner and carols in Morrison, everyone headed toward the dorm quad to burn up all the problems of the past year by throwing holly in the fire during the Yule Log ceremony.

President Wireman joins Kenny, Rachel, Holly, Ann, Roby, Debbie and Nikki for a festive shot.

Christa Jones and Kathryn Winsman bring in the boar's head.

CARNIVAL

Queens kicked off the last week of school with the Carnival Weekend. Thursday evening, students were jammin' to the sounds of a Reggae band in Morrison. Saturday, the Student Union sponsored a "Carnival Dance" in Morrison. A video disc jockey rocked the Queens Cafeteria and students boogied the night away in their suits and dresses. The weekend didn't end there. A huge air-mattress volleyball game called "Air Ball" was the main attraction, with other games rounding out the day's festivities.

Junior Shelley Britt and Gary Belk are ready for dinner and dancing on Carnival Weekend.

ICE IT UP!!

The beginning of the year showed the campus that College Union had wasted no time in planning fun events. CUB sponsored the first Midnite on Ice of the year. There was a huge turnout and everyone had a great time. Between skating—or trying to—and munching on the goodies provided by Queens, students had a chance to socialize. Freshmen got to meet new people and upperclassmen had a chance to catch up on what everyone did over the summer.

Queens College was honored with a visit by Peter Jennings, anchor of ABC's World News Tonight, on October 3, 1992. The entire student body joined forces with faculty and staff to give Mr. Jennings a welcome that he will not soon forget. Flowers were planted, signs were made, and meals were prepared to help the Queens community put its best foot forward. When the cameras rolled in front of Belk Chapel that evening, all of America witnessed on the South's most beautiful college campuses in action, bustling with student activities. This visit came shortly after Queens was named as one of America's up and coming colleges in US News and World Report. Go Queens!

It was a regular Las Vegas Casino. Fortunes were made and lost in the flash of a card. The die were thrown and professors flaunted their dealing techniques. Students bet their chips while a cover band set the tone for a festive and eventful evening. Some students danced in their shimmering dresses and classy tuxedos while the real highrollers waited for a streak of luck at the tables. The evening was enjoyed by losers and winners alike. The culmination of the night was an auction where students bid on prizes donated by local Charlotte merchants.

WE'RE OUTTA HERE!

May 1, 1993-A day of bittersweet memories. As horribly cliché as that sounds, it is so true. The graduating class of 1993 couldn't have been happier to shed their college career for a business one. However, the friends left behind were sad to see them go.

The graduation celebration began the previous evening with baccalaureate and refreshments at Dr. Wireman's home. Promptly at 10:00 a.m. on Saturday the procession marched down the lawn of Burwell Hall. The graduates could hardly contain their excitement as they filed into their seats.

After the invocation from Dr. Mowrey and two motivating speeches by Mr. Hugh McColl and Dr. Wireman, special awards were given and the conferring of degrees was performed.

Congratulation class of 1993!

Following the ceremonies, the decorated graduates received congratulations from family and friends.

REMEMBER RIDEL

Dr. Robert Ridel, ex-head of the sociology department, ex-OASIS adviser, and ex-Sigma adviser, will be remembered on the Queens College campus.

Students rallied around him with thousands of flyers and posters demanding of the Board of Trustees to renew his tenure—but all to no avail.

The cast of Back County Crimes.

Julie Janorschke contemplates Greece and how she'd like to see a sunset there.

Jennifer Harris tries to hold on to her "husband" Ryan Petersen.

Back County Crimes

Back County Crimes was the fall drama production staged by the Queens College Drama Department. Directed by Professor Jane Hadley (a student favorite), the play was both stimulating, and entertaining. With a fictional setting in a place called "Love," Back County Crimes followed in the tradition of Spoon-River Anthology by presenting for the audience's approval (and sometimes disapproval) a varied cast of characters.

A musical production, Back County Crimes showcased the vocal prowess of Queens' aspiring stars. The show ran for four nights in the E.H. Little Recital Hall, playing to packed houses and rave reviews every night.

Like Spoon-River, the story focused on different individuals' stories within a "backcountry" setting. The stories were alternately funny, thought-provoking, and sad, offering many different facets of life for backcountry people and people to-day. The individual performances are too many to number, but each contributed to the central theme that the crimes one commits, big or small, will never go away. They will echo throughout a person's life, whether in the "backcountry" or in the city. Altogether, Back County Crimes gave the Queens community an excellent portrayal of "love" both in spirit and in song.

Russ Perry plays the hardened minister.

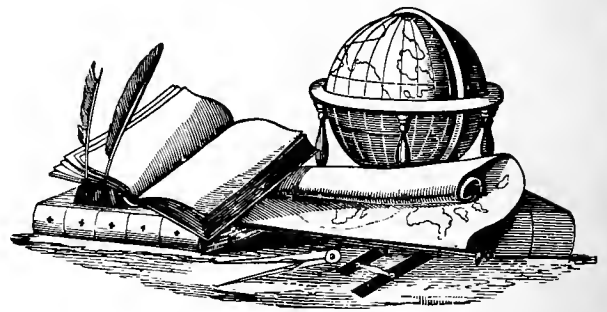

Maurice Sadler insists he "didn't mean to do no evil thing."

The Scholars

Scholarships at Queens provide qualified students with financial assistance. Queens College is well-known for their assistance in trying to make sure that every student that passes the admissions requirements is able to attend Queens if they so desire. Many students are unaware that they are qualified for scholarships when in fact they could receive a scholarship of some type. More than 75% of the student body at Queens are on some type of financial aid, and more than half of this percentage are on scholarships that Queens provides.

Presidential Scholarships and Mecklenburg Scholarships are full tuition paid scholarships. Queens Scholars enjoy a five-thousand-dollar-a-year scholarship that is renewable for up to five years.

Each year tuition at Queens is on the rise. The only relief from this is financial aid that Queens provides through their excellent scholarship program.

Queens Scholars: Kathy Howell, Marshall Slaton, Jill Jones

Abigail Obermiller escorts Jeane Kirkpatrick around Queens campus.

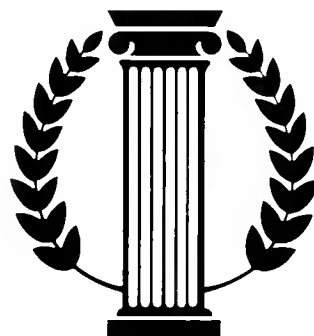

Jeane Kirkpatrick spoke to students and the community in the main Liberal Learning room first semester.

The Learning Society

Every year the Learning Society of Queens College brings noteworthy speakers to campus. In the fall, the Learning Society sponsored a visit from Jeane Kirkpatrick, a leading woman in today's society. She offered enlightening information for today's woman on how to succeed in the male dominated working world.

In the spring the Learning Society sponsored syndicated newspaper columnist George Will. He is known for his usual article in Newsweek Magazine where he expresses his well-thought-out conservative views.

George Will came to Queens second semester during April.

Mr. Will spoke on many different topics during his lecture and question and answer session.

EYES ON THE WORLD

Once again Queens College hosted the International Symposium. Founded on the premise that an international awareness makes for a more complete person, the symposium attempts to accomplish this goal. A forum for intercultural exchange and social awareness, it provides visitors with the sights, sounds, and ideas of a world sometimes entirely different from our own. Also, it provides outsiders with a small look inside the problems and challenges that one faces in the international community.

Spring signals the time for change and perhaps for some that means a trip out of the country. Queens College students left for a trip to China last summer for a taste of international flavor. Many students were afraid that the trip would not be so enjoyable because they had heard rumors that the food was less than desirable. Imagine their surprise when they acknowledged the fact that Chinese food was just different from what they were used to and part of a different culture. The only negative part was that the fact they felt like giants — in size that is.

ENGLISH/COMMUNICATIONS

The English major requires hours spent reading and writing. Queens students learn from a faculty rich in education and experience. Students may choose from a diverse offering of courses. English majors are well-prepared scholars that are ready for graduate school or the real world.

Many students choose to double major or minor in Communications because the two fields of study are closely related. Courses of study in the communications major focus on news writing and radio broadcast. Interns enjoy many opportunities to explore career interests in a variety of fields.

Communications professor Wendy Waite takes care of one in a long list of phone calls.

The Summoner from Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales" gives Professor McGavran a lecherous eye.

Professor Doug Minnerly gives his thespians a pep talk before one of their great performances.

Dr. Richard Goode and Ken Cohen have another lengthy discussion on who knows what.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE/ART

In a culture that is increasingly international, it is imperative that a student acquire a firm foundation in a second language. Queens College requires its students to study a foreign language for two semesters before graduation. Many students decide to concentrate on a language for all four years. Others choose an International Experience Study Tour that complements their foreign language.

Art majors are able to take advantage of the architecture and museums that Charlotte has to offer. The highlight of every Art major's career at Queens is their Senior Art Show that takes place at the conclusion of Spring Term in McEwen. At the opening of each show, a reception is held to honor the senior artist.

Parlez-vous what?

Dr. Charlie Reid and Dr. Richard Goode play in front of Watkins Art Building.

HISTORY/BUSINESS/POLI. SCI.

Queens College has always concentrated on a strong business department. Business majors feel confident in a strong future when they graduate. Internships often lead to full-time positions.

Queens is also known for its History Department. Charlotte is a city rich with history. The history major at Queens often enjoys field trips to local historical sites. Dr. Rankin took his Old South class to RoseHill Plantation at the end of the year.

The Poli.Sci. Department is connected with the History Department at Queens. Poli.Sci. majors take history courses, but their junior and senior years students take more specialized Poli.Sci. courses.

Dr. Richard Rankin listens attentively to one of his students.

Professor Paul Hoying flashes that friendly smile that lets students know he's there for them.

THE SCIENCES

Every student at Queens is required to take two semesters of physical education. Queens offers a wide variety of courses. The purpose of this is to emphasize that physical education is important.

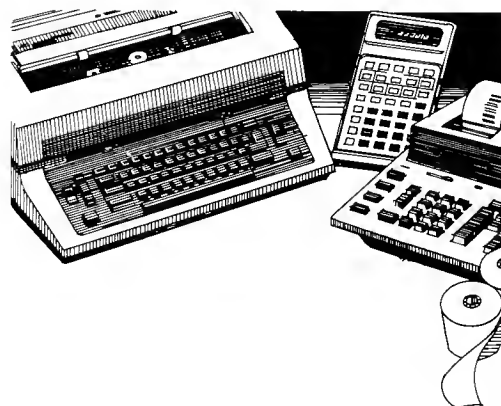

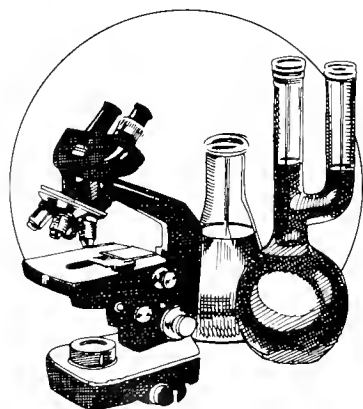

One must not overlook or ignore the significant contributions of the Science Department. Queens boasts a 100% acceptance rate to medical school. This is due to the top-notch faculty and rigorous curriculum.

Professors confer outside the bookstore.

LIBERAL

PSYCHOLOGY/PHILOSOPHY/ RELIGION/SOCIOLOGY

Philosophy is one of the newer majors at Queens. Philosophy is one of the bases of Liberal Learning. Both professors of Philosophy teach LL classes and lead many lectures.

Religion is an important part of the Queens community. The Religion minor studies all religions as well as the history surrounding religion. As of yet there is no Religion major at Queens.

Sociology, like Philosophy, is a small department run by Dr. Robert Ridel. Sociology is the study of people. Some people doubt the sociology major will continue at Queens since Dr. Ridel was not granted tenure.

Dr. Allegetti answers a student's question about Psychology.

Dr. Frederick makes a philosophical statement.

The men's soccer team finished with yet another outstanding season. With a season record of 12-4-1, the third year team was another very talented and successful one.

Through dedication and hard work, returning early to school in the fall and spending almost twelve hours a day on conditioning and drills, the team finished fifth in the south region and received votes in the final week of the top twenty poll in NCAA Division II.

Entering freshman Bill

Kennedy and sophomore Glen Nocik were the leading scorers for the Royals. Kennedy scored ten goals in 17 games and had four assists. Nocik scored nine goals in ten games and had three assists.

The men's soccer team seemed to have been plagued by injury.

Freshman Bill Kennedy proved to be a wonderful addition to the team. He is one of the team's leading scorers for the 1992 season.

WOMEN'S SOCCER

The Royals Women's team finished this year with its third consecutive winning season, 8-7-1. Angela Rushton, senior goalkeeper, completed her career with 19 shutouts, and senior defender Melissa Tunstall never missed a penalty kick in four years. Suzy Sulsona led the Royals with 23 points and she scored nine goals.

A soccer team has to be a very strong unit to accomplish anything and our women's team has the winning spirit. From the seniors who know the ropes to the freshmen who get the dirty work, everyone does their part to make the team work.

As freshman Sherry Layton says, "You start off nervous, but the team members accept you really well and they make you feel like part of the team."

MEN'S TENNIS

The men's tennis team proved to be as strong as ever with most of the veterans returning and the addition of a couple of strong freshmen.

The team participated in two fledgling tournaments in the fall, one at East Tennessee State and the other at Augusta College. The Augusta tournament proved to be a successful one for a few of the players.

Senior Aaron Petersen and sophomore Andy Toughy won the #2 doubles flight. Toughy won the #4 singles flight and senior Daragh Griffin won the #2 singles flight.

The team had a shaky start in the beginning of the spring season but with the leadership of seniors Petersen, Griffin, and Mike Mounter, and the strength of the rest of the team, they are sure to finish on top. In a match against Berry College, the only win came from Aaron Petersen who defeated the 12th ranked player in the nation. At Armstrong, Petersen competed against the 5th ranked player in the nation and lost but coach Charles

Gordon said, "He played extremely well and could possibly receive a national ranking himself."

Devoted as ever, the men practice every day and work together to improve their team. The seniors will be missed immensely but the talented underclassmen are sure to add to this team very strongly.

Aaron Petersen hits the ball hard.

WOMEN'S TENNIS

The women's tennis team ended the 1992-93 season very successfully. Ending the fall season with a 4-3 record and entering the spring season with much leadership and ability, the women's tennis team came out on top.

Coach Phyllis Pharr led returning senior co-captains Kyra Norwood and Melissa Cliett and senior Krista Smith, junior Holly Dickson, sophomores Nikki Blaha and Alison Permakoff, and entering freshmen Jill Curtis and April Harmon. With the absence of Krista Smith and Holly Dickson in the spring, senior Lalio Borrás came to the rescue after an outstanding volleyball season.

With team unity and leadership, the team finished the season with exclusive wins under their belt and an outstanding record to show it.

Senior Melissa Cliett's talent and especially her ability to "take over the net" will surely be missed.

Seniors Kyra Norwood, Lalio Borrás, and freshman Jill Curtis smile because they know they will be eating a nice seafood dinner in Hilton Head after their final match there.

The Royals golf team entered their third season with a promising future. The Royals are more experienced this year with juniors Todd Austin, James Swift, Michael Outlaw and sophomore Bryan Fryar. One seventh and two eighth place finishes were the best tournaments for the Royals.

The Kappa Delta's had another wonderful and exciting year. We raised money for the Shamrock Project. On a lighter note, we enjoyed the year with several parties. ## Queens College Chorale

The Queens College Chorale is a select choral ensemble requiring audition for admission. The Chorale performed in April at their Spring Concert in the Fine Arts Center and again at Baccalaureate.

Their repertoire includes secular and sacred choral works from the fifteenth through the twentieth centuries.

The Chorale rehearsed on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday throughout the year in the basement of the Fine Arts Center.

Amy Boger accompanies the Chorale on the piano during rehearsals and at concerts.

Dr. Glenn conducts both the Chamber Singers and the Chorale.

Queens College Chamber Singers

The Queens College Chamber Singers performed for college and community functions throughout the year.

The group performed secular and sacred works for smaller chamber groups from the fifteenth through the twentieth century at events including Boar's Head, Moravian Lovefeast, the Spring Concert, and Graduation.

Students auditioned for enrollment in the class and were also required to sing in the Queens College Chorale.

SIGMA Upsilon

Sigma Upsilon, a national honor fraternity devoted to food, drink, song and the pursuits of the language, met twice monthly to read and review fiction writing. In addition, Sigma Upsilon sponsored inspiring poetry readings, exhilarant writing retreats, rousing student-faculty parties and "secret initiation rituals."

Membership was taken in the spring on a submission only basis. New members were judged on creative writing potential and a love for the language. The fraternity's purpose was to prove to the world that exquisite literary potential does exist within the walls of Queens College and that writing can be an altogether sensual and passionate experience.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION

The Baptist Student Union, open to anyone regardless of their religious affiliation, was partially funded by Baptist Campus Ministries.

BSU held weekly Bible studies, sponsored several retreats and was active with other Charlotte area Baptist Student Unions.

erin McCarty, Mike Register, and Amy Stout get silly at one of the BSU trips to Ben and Jerry's.

The Current-Newspaper Staff

The Current Newspaper staff created several papers during the semester under the direction of Ken Cohen, the editor.

Christa D. Jones sold ads for the paper so that students would not have to pay anything to obtain one.

Other staff members wrote articles, took pictures, and drew up layouts. Newspaper is open to all students.

First row: Jennifer Marshall, Alison Permakoff, Daniel Elmaleh. Second row: Christa Jones, Ken Cohen, Brad Rowland, Rebecca Wilson.

Sigma Theta Tau

Sigma Theta Tau is the international honor society of nursing. Its purpose is to recognize the development of leadership qualities and superior achievement, foster professional standards and strengthen commitment to ideals and purposes of the profession of nursing.

Four meetings were held this year, two of which were business meetings and the other two focused on academic accomplishments. The latest research which has been conducted by nurse educators and leaders in the nursing community was presented and discussed at the academic meetings.

Mortar Board

Mortar Board is a national organization which recognizes college seniors for superior scholarship and active involvement in their college community. At Queens, the Orb and Scepter chapter of Mortar Board embodies these qualities, and initiated several campus events for the past school year.

The organization sponsored a pool tournament in the Lion's Den in the fall and organized its annual "Killer Tag" competition in the spring.

Mortar Board also sponsored mock graduate school exams such as the GRE, GMAT, LSAT and MCAT in cooperation with the Kaplan test center.

The organization completed a busy year in the spring with the initiation of new members as another school year came to a close.

Orientation Staff

Orientation Staff was made up of a group of students who wanted to make the first days of life at Queens as easy as possible for the freshmen.

Students applied in the spring for the opportunity to be on staff. Those chosen came back to Queens and began training several days before the freshmen arrived.

The Orientation Staff helped new students move into dorms and get acquainted with campus and each other.

The orientation staff forms an assembly line to assemble packets to be given to the freshmen. The packets included coupons, maps of Charlotte, and information about orientation.

Trish Gilder, Susan Powell, Brian Honeycutt, Shelley Britt, and Alicia Edelen sing the orientation staff's version of Bohemian Rhapsody for the freshmen.

Activities Day

Emily Sherman stops by the Yearbook table to find out more about the class. Activities Day, held in September, gave students a chance to find out more about organizations on campus.

The OASIS table gets a break while foreign language students sign up for the International Club.

Tracy Smyrl answers questions about the Music Therapy Club on Activities Day.

Admissions Core

Members of Admissions Core gave tours to students visiting from high schools, made phone calls to high school seniors to answer questions about Queens and played a big role in Open Houses.

Core members kept overnight visitors, escorted prospective students to interviews and meetings, directed traffic and gave high school students an idea of what life is like at Queens from a student's point of view.

Greg Waldrop talks to Judy Johnson during registration at the February Open House to see if she has anything that needs to be done.

Christa Jones welcomes visiting high school seniors to the Open House held in February.

During a group initiatives course at UNCC, Abigail Obermiller begins her ascent into the trees of the ropes course.

Senate

Senate is the branch of the Student Government Association that acts as a voice for the whole student body.

Students were elected to represent each class at Queens so that student needs and concerns could be discussed and acted upon. Senate met every Tuesday during college hour.

This year, Senate adopted Goulds, Florida, which was hit hard by Hurricane Andrew. Students went to Goulds to help clean up. Presents and necessities were collected and sent for Christmas.

The Career Center Committee worked with Len Brinkley on Career Center plans. The Dining Hall Committee worked with Marriott to develop some more flexible meal plan options and bring student concerns about food to attention.

Senate members learn to take risks by participating in a ropes course at UNCC in the fall.

College Union

The College Union, the activities branch of the Student Government Association, was primarily student led and advised by Brian Honeycutt. The eight committees that are a part of College Union strove to develop activity programming that was interesting to the students and would enhance life at Queens.

The College Union sponsored events such as Casino Party, Religious Events Retreats, and Sit Down Dinner entertainment throughout the year.

Christa C. Jones and Anne Williams enjoy the annual Casino Party which is sponsored by the Special Events Branch of College Union.

College Union Board of Directors: Jennifer Vance, Wendy Kolvek, Keri Harper, Heather Laws, Scott Robards, and Tracy Smyrl.

COLLEGE UNION COMMITTEES

Cultural Events Chair—planned events such as poetry readings, Jazz bands, Women's History Lip sync, Walli Collins, and Duke's Men of Yale.

Film Chair—presented movies on campus and organized the film library for students to use.

Food Chair—provided the comedians and entertainers for Sit Down Dinners.

Publicity Chair—publicized all of the College Union events.

Recreation Chair—responsible for the upkeep of the game library and programming events such as Midnite on Ice, ski trips, and roller skating parties.

Religious Events Chair—helped the chaplain with chapel, Cropwalk and retreats such as white water rafting for students of all faiths.

Special Events Co-Chair—responsible for Casino Party weekend and Spring Carnival weekend.

Social Activities Chair—planned events such as Halloween Party, comedians, lawn concerts, karaoke, and Fun Flicks.

Anne Williams and Stacey Brackins partake in ye olde Queens College tradition, Boar's Head.

Christina Hamilton, Wendy Kolvek, and Keri Harper attend the Halloween party planned by the Social Activities Chair of College Union.

OASIS

OASIS stands for Organization Against Social Injustice and Suffering and their motto is "Think globally, act locally."

Dr. Ridel, the club's adviser, and its president Lisa Michelbach organized several events for the 1992-93 year.

In October they slept in cardboard boxes on Burwell lawn one night to dramatize the plight of the homeless. They also had a candlelight march and a soup kitchen. For Thanksgiving, they provided dinner for twelve needy families and organized a food and clothing drive. During the spring, OASIS held a clean-up for a needy neighborhood.

Lisa Michelbach prays during the candlelight march in October.

Joe Ficarrotta, Lisa Michelbach, Janet Hughes, Meg Jones, and Julie Ripley participated in the candlelight march held in October.

Liesl White and Tracy Smyrl work at the Music Therapy Club table on Activities Day.

Music Therapy Club

All of this club's members know how to sing "Old McDonald," dance the Hoke-y Pokey and play colored bells. Better yet, the members have taught dozens of disabled children and adults to do these musical activities and more. It's all part of being in the Music Therapy Club, whose members are music therapy majors.

Helping others through music is a fulfilling experience, but, as in all intensive studies, music therapy majors need time off to gather informally as a club. Janna Van Winkle said, "It's nice to have a support group and get to know the other people in your major, since we're all going through a lot of the same things."

Experiences all members share include a curriculum loaded with music, psychology, and music therapy classes, as well as an eight-semester practicum on campus in which music therapy majors work with clients in a one on one clinical environment. Tracy Smyrl said, "I feel prepared to find a job; I feel good about my undergraduate experiences here."

THE ARETÈ-YEARBOOK STAFF

Yearbook staff is open to all interested students. Staffers sell ads, write copy, take pictures, draw up layouts and design the cover.

In order to raise money to help pay for the yearbook, the yearbook staff sold concessions at a concert in the Fine Arts Center.

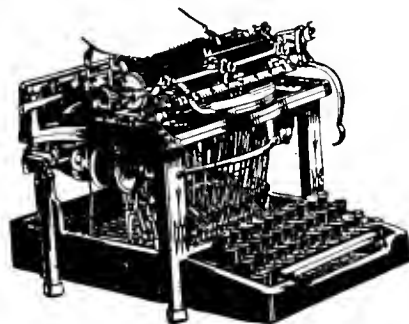

Student Life section editor Erin Norton, staffer Sara Klingman, and Business Manager Debbie Gavin work diligently to meet the final deadline.

Looking frazzled and stressed, editor-in-chief Shelley Britt works with incoming editor Brittaney Hopper on layouts.

People section editor April Amos smiles showing that yearbook staff isn't all that bad.

Debbie Gavin gives the look that says she's not so sure she agrees with April.

Academics section editor Amanda Pemberton and staffer Jayne Robison work on layouts for their deadline.

Bush. Clinton. Perot?

Presidential candidate Bill Clinton and his running mate, Senator Al Gore, held arms aloft and stood before a convention hall brimming with euphoria and confidence on July 17, 1992, in New York's Madison Square Garden. Clinton told delegates he accepted the nomination.

President Bush and Barbara shared a moment on the podium during the final extravaganza.

Bush and Vice President Quayle roused the GOP delegates to cheers as they accepted their party's nominations for a second term on August 20, 1992. The Republican National Convention was held at the Houston Astrodome. Bush struck a new defiant tone in his speech—a marked contrast to the 1988 oration in which he promised a “kinder and gentler nation.”

As he turned to wave to the crowd, his 12-year-old daughter, Chelsea, bounced over to his side and waved, grinning.

The Perot Factor was reintroduced to presidential politics 11 weeks to the day after the Texas billionaire abandoned plans to run, saying he had concluded he could not win. Many analysts view his re-entry as a selfish attempt at redemption by a political novice who failed to realize what he was getting into months ago and now wants to heal a wounded ego.

The air filled with cheers as William Jefferson Clinton was sworn inot office as president of the U.S. on 1/20/93. For the oath-taking, Clinton chose a Bible given to him by his grandmother.

(left) Bill Clinton turned out an impressive version of "Heartbreak Hotel" as Arsenio Hall gestured approvingly in the musical opening of "The Arsenio Hall Show." Hall said, "It's good to see a Democrat blowing something other than the election."

USA Gets Excited!

An era of amateurism passed into an age of professionalism, and the Olympics were transformed forever, when professional athletes were allowed to compete in the 1992 Summer Olympics in Barcelona, Spain. America's 108 medals surpassed by one the total in 1968 and trailed only the inflated totals of the Soviet-boycotted 1984 Los Angeles games and the 1904 St. Louis games, attended by just 12 nations. America stands poised to rule the sports world in Atlanta in 1996. U.S. volleyball player Bob Samuels (pictured above) celebrates victory against Canada; the "Dream Team" (pictured below), plays their semifinal with Lithuania.

There's a new flag flying over Canada—the World Series pennant. The Toronto Blue Jays took baseball's championship outside the U.S. for the first time ever, beating the Atlanta Braves 4-3 in 11 innings in Game 6. "It's been a long, hard battle," Toronto manager Cito Gaston said. "But I said from opening day, these guys have been focusing on this very thing." The Braves, meanwhile, became the first team to lose consecutive World Series since the 1977-78 L.A. Dodgers.

Escorted by more than 1,000 private boats, replicas of Christopher Columbus' ships arrived in the U.S. on 2/15/92, as part of the 500th anniversary celebration of his voyage to the New World. The ships, christened in Spain in 1990, were built with the same materials carpenters used to build the original ships.

Guns N' Roses celebrate their Michael Jackson Video Vanguard Award for "November Rain."

It was a new improved Stefan Edberg (pictured on left) who walked off the court in September with his second straight U.S. Open title, the world's No. 1 ranking and $500,000.00. Top-seeded Monica Seles (pictured on right) also won her second straight U.S. Open Women's singles title in September defeating No. 5 Arantxa Sanchez Vicario of Spain 6-3, 6-3. It was the 13th Grand Slam Tournament Seles has played and her seventh victory.

From October through December 1992, the ships are scheduled to stop in the California cities of San Francisco, San Luis Obispo, Los Angeles, San Juan de Capistrano, and San Diego.

A grim new version of the world AIDS epidemic predicts that more than 25 million people will have the disease by the end of the decade, and up to 120 million will be infected. Amsterdam, Netherlands, hosted the largest gathering of AIDS experts in July, but there were no breakthroughs on halting the deadly sweep of this virus. The 12,000 participants had the opportunity to hear some 1,000 speeches and discussion on virtually every aspect of the disease, from novel combinations of drugs to the pace of viral mutations. Marking losses here in the U.S., people signed panels of the AIDS Memorial Quilt in New York. The exhibition is part of a 35-city national tour.

USA DISASTERS

Hurricane Andrew struck southern Florida on 8/24/92, with wind gusting to 164 mpg and a 12-foot tidal surge that flattened homes, uprooted trees and wrecked an Air Force base. 55 deaths were linked to the hurricane. The hurricane's 54-hour rampage was the most expensive natural disaster in the US. "It's like a bomb hit," said one Florida City resident.

Hurricane Iniki, pictured above, dealt a direct blow to Kauai, on 9/11/92, with winds to 160 mph and torrential rain. It destroyed buildings and damaged many others. 20-foot waves crashed over roads and the island lost power and telephone service before the worst of the storm hit. Iniki was the most powerful hurricane in the Hawaiian Islands this century.

Two powerful earthquakes rocked California on 6/28/92, killed a child and injured 300. The first quake registered 7.4. The second quake, about three hours later measured 6.5.

Shortly after noon on 2/26/93, an explosion rocked the World Trade Center in New York City, leaving several dead or injured. The bomb is believed to have been carried in a rented van parked in the garage below the towers. Islamic fundamentalist Mohammed A Salameh has been arrested. This was the first terrorist act committed on US soil.

INTERNATIONAL NEWS

President Bush and the leaders of Canada and Mexico participated in a ceremony in 10/92 to spotlight an agreement designed to create the world's largest and richest free trade zone.

Is it political persecution or desperate poverty causing Haitians to flee their homeland, pictured above, and seek asylum in the US? About 25,000 of them were denied.

US warplanes swept over southern Iraq on 1/13/93, bombing military targets. The goal of the attack was to take out radar and missile sites that threatened patrol planes. Servicemen chalked "to Saddam with love" on a warplane.

US Marines, pictured above, arrived in Somalia on 12/9/92 to help stop the widespread violence and prevent looting of relief shipments. Three months after the world woke up to one of the worst famines in history, food started to reach thousands.

Kyra,

You came into my life as a very special gift and have always been a very special daughter. You have grown up and become a person anyone would be proud to call their "daughter." I am proud you're mine.

As the sun has given us warmth and a smile so have you as my daughter. You light up my life like the sun above.

May all your hopes & dreams come true. Keep dreaming — keep reaching for the stars — grab the brightest star out there and hold on tight. May your future be bright. You deserve only the best.

I hope life treats you kind. I hope you have all you've ever dreamed of — I wish you joy and happiness and above all this I wish LOVE. I will always LOVE you and no matter what — I will always be there for you.

May God always walk with you.

I Love You,

Obviously the year is over and by now you have the finished product in your hands. I'll begin with saying I hope you enjoy it. Hours and hours of hard work have gone into this book and I can honestly say there were times I wondered if I would finish it. Somehow everything came together in the end.

Next I need to make some apologies. If you were left out of the book I am truly sorry. We did our best to cover everyone but I know there are a few who didn't make it in. In particular I want to apologize to Public Safety, The Bookstore, and Lidia Figiel. I'll ask next year's staff to try harder for you guys!

Finally, praises and thanks are in order. To Brittaney Hopper, good luck as editor next year. The divider pages add a lot to this book. April Amos, thanks for the extra hours you put in and for the seniors' pages. Katie Porter, thanks for taking on more than was expected and continuing to smile. Caty Sherrill, thanks for your extra hours and keeping us all laughing—Good Luck! And last but not least, Mike "Cash" Register. Thanks for staying a week later with me to help with the copy.

I also need to thank Sue Eldridge for helping us with "the embarrassing stuff" as Dr. Eldridge said. The Public Relations office and Public Safety have been very patient with our needs as well.

Thanks to Mom and Dad, too, for helping me make it through the week after—you know what I mean! MERCI!

And to Gary Belk, thanks for understanding when I lost my mind and for finding it for me. You helped me keep my sanity and you may as well be a student here for the amount of hours you put in. Thanks for believing in me. You know whose HERO you are! I Love You!

Thanks to Wendy Waite for helping us as you did and always checking on me. I hope the 1992-1993 Arete will bring back memories of good times and good friends. That's what it's for.

Shelley A. Britt
